Girl Scouts Partner With Big Brothers Big Sisters of Greater Cincinnati To Benefit School Children

Join Big Brothers Big Sisters of Greater Cincinnati and the Girl Scouts of Kentucky's Wilderness Road Council as they bring an exciting Robotics program to "Bigs" and "Littles" at Grant County High School. Students in this hands-on program, along with their Big Brothers and Big Sisters, will learn about building and programming the robots.

The collaboration came about when the Girl Scouts realized they could help young people in Grant County, as well as get out the word about Scouting. (Boys as well as girls are participating in the Robotics program.) In a time when many young people need mentors, this particular project shows them that adults are willing to work together for their benefit. It also gives them a lesson in working together themselves as they make their own robotic creations.

This promises to be a fun and learning experience for the kids, as well as a visual one for anyone with a camera.

You're invited to see this work in action Tuesday April 13th from 9:30 a.m.-10:15 at Grant County High School.

Of all young people involved with Big Brothers Big Sisters of Greater Cincinnati: 99% are in school, substance-abuse free, and not in the juvenile justice system.
